

Artwork

Sand Self Portrait

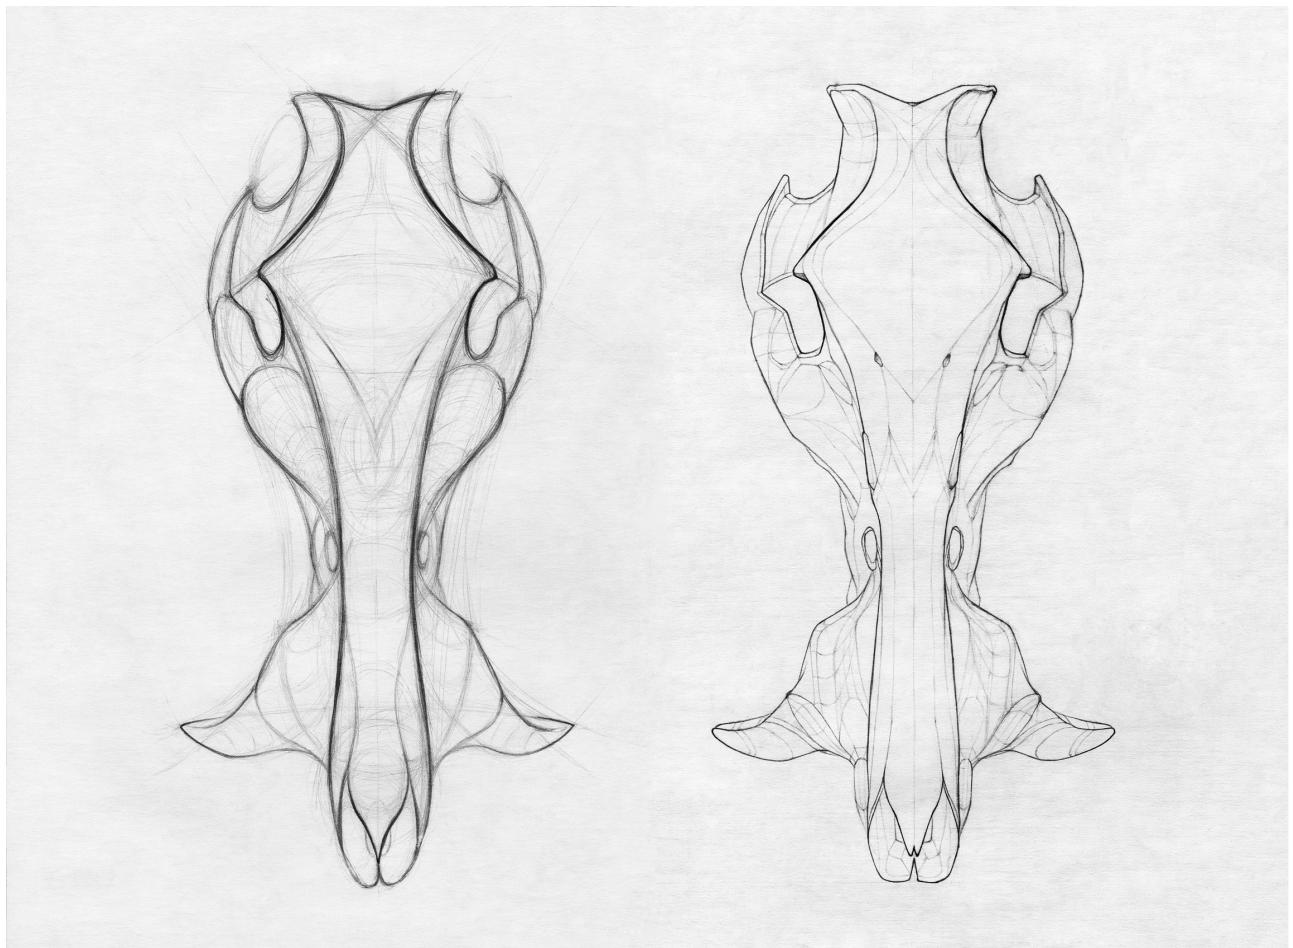

The classic HB pencil (2009)

I did this drawing during a time in my life when I didn't understand that self confidence should come from being comfortable with who you are and not by the things you have. Because of my ignorance I hurt someone I loved.

Boar Skull

Conte (2011)

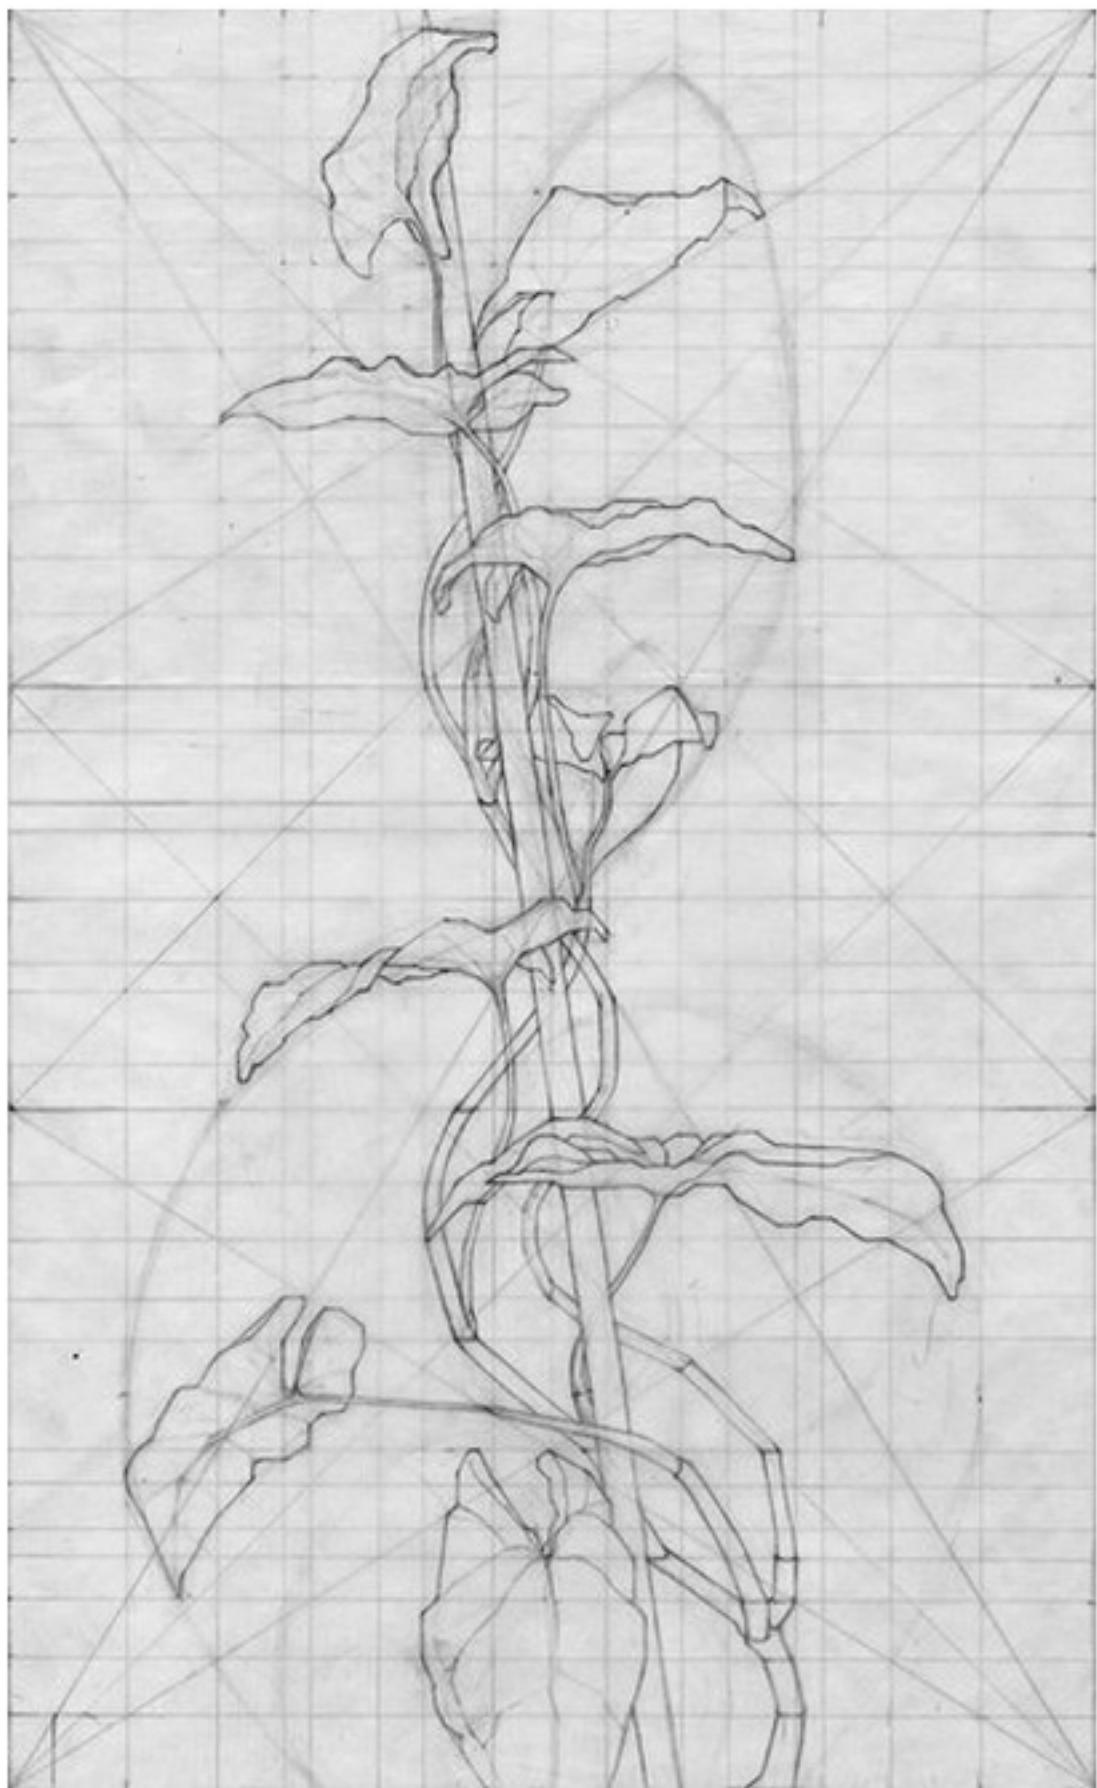

An ugly animal with a beautiful skull.

Plant on Golden Section

HB Pencil (2011)

How I hide rhythm and harmony into a line drawing. Do you see the treble clef?

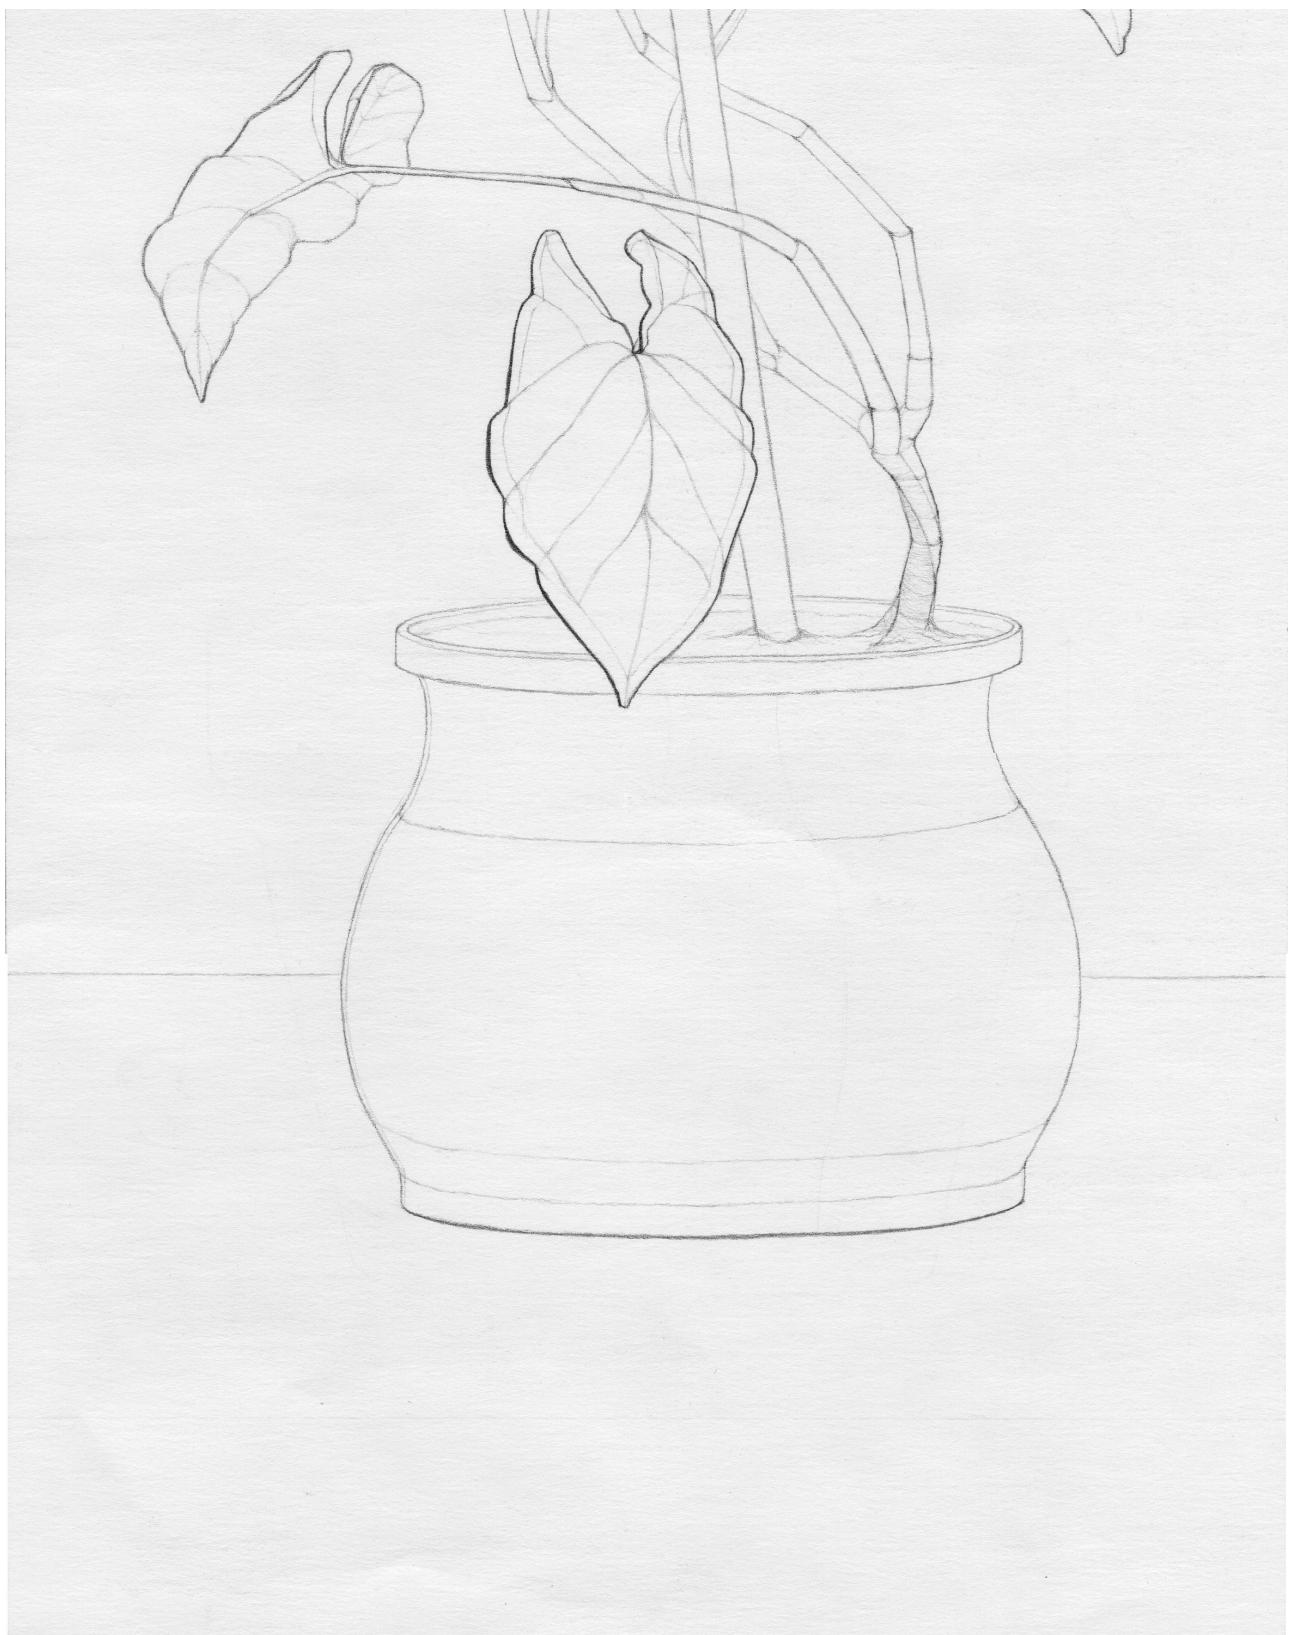

Plant

Conte (2011)

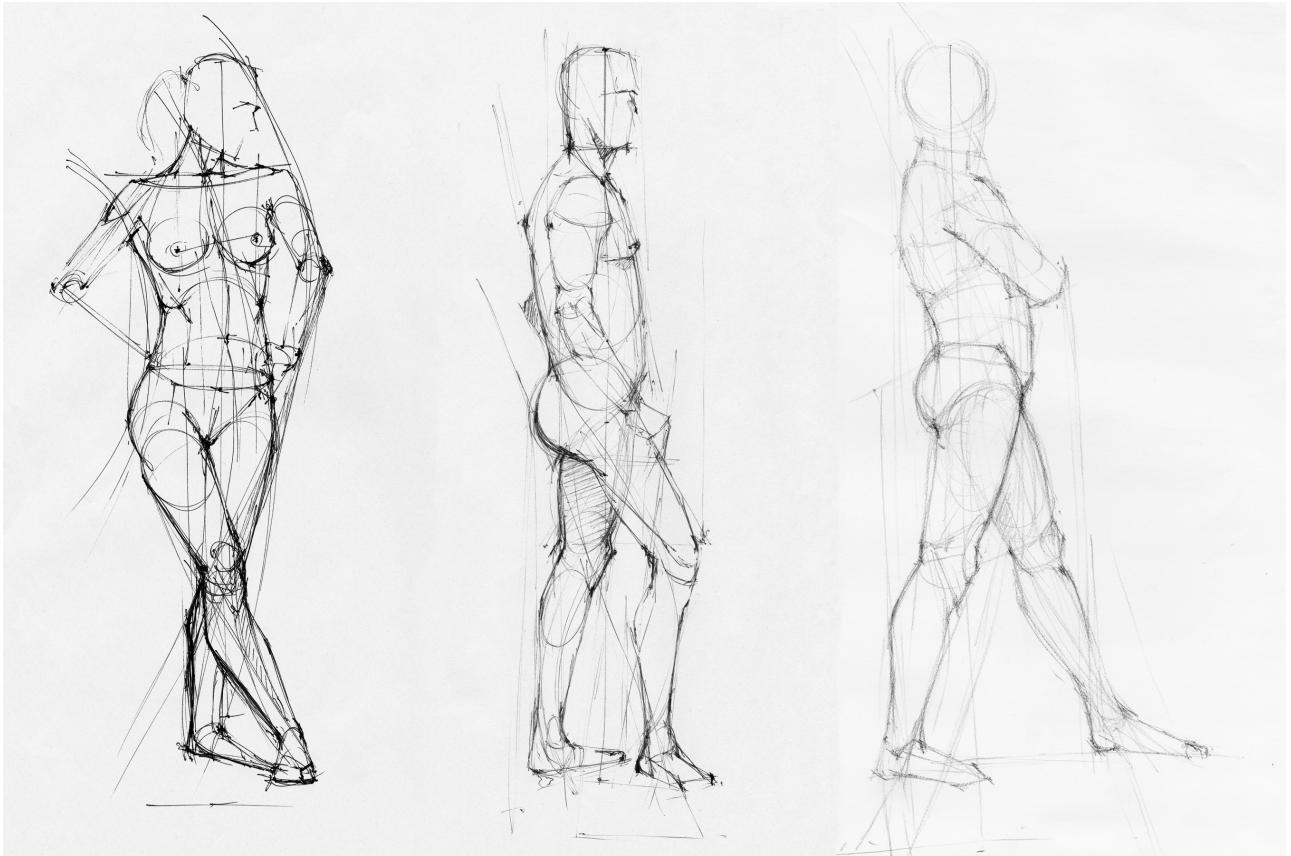

It is so easy to look over a plant. They do not posses a brain but they are amazing at what they do.

3 Figures

Pen, Conte, and HB Pencil (2011)

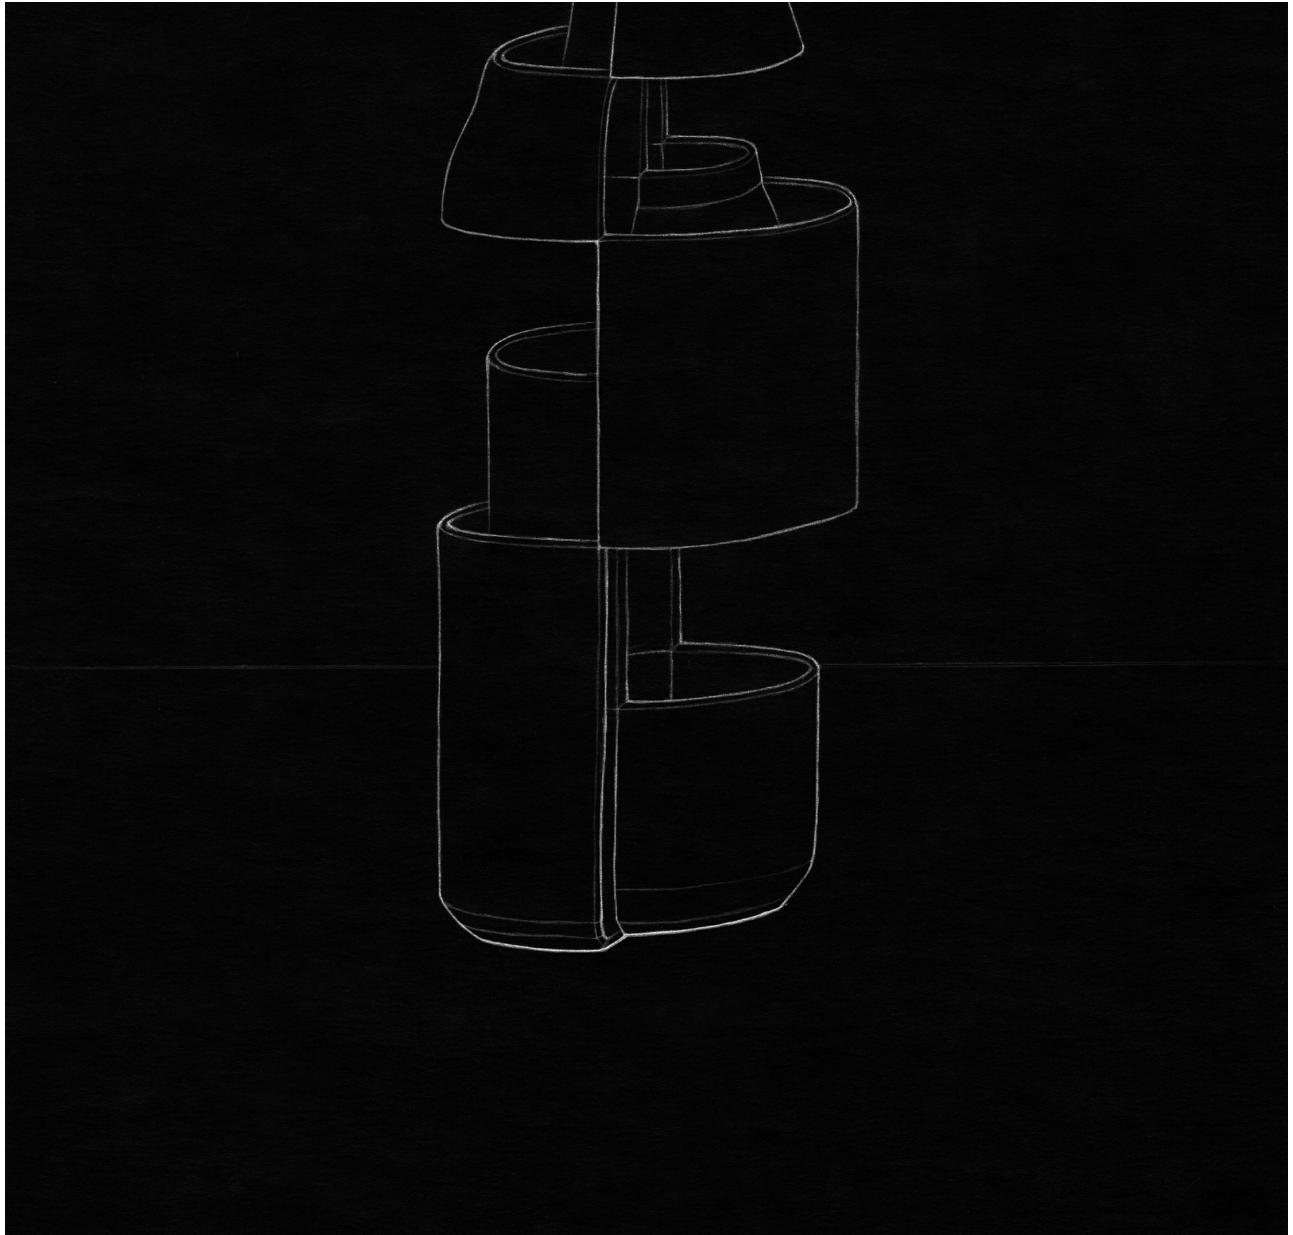

Truncated Bottle

Photoshop and HB Pencil (2010)

This bottle is like "oh you want to drink out of me... not today"

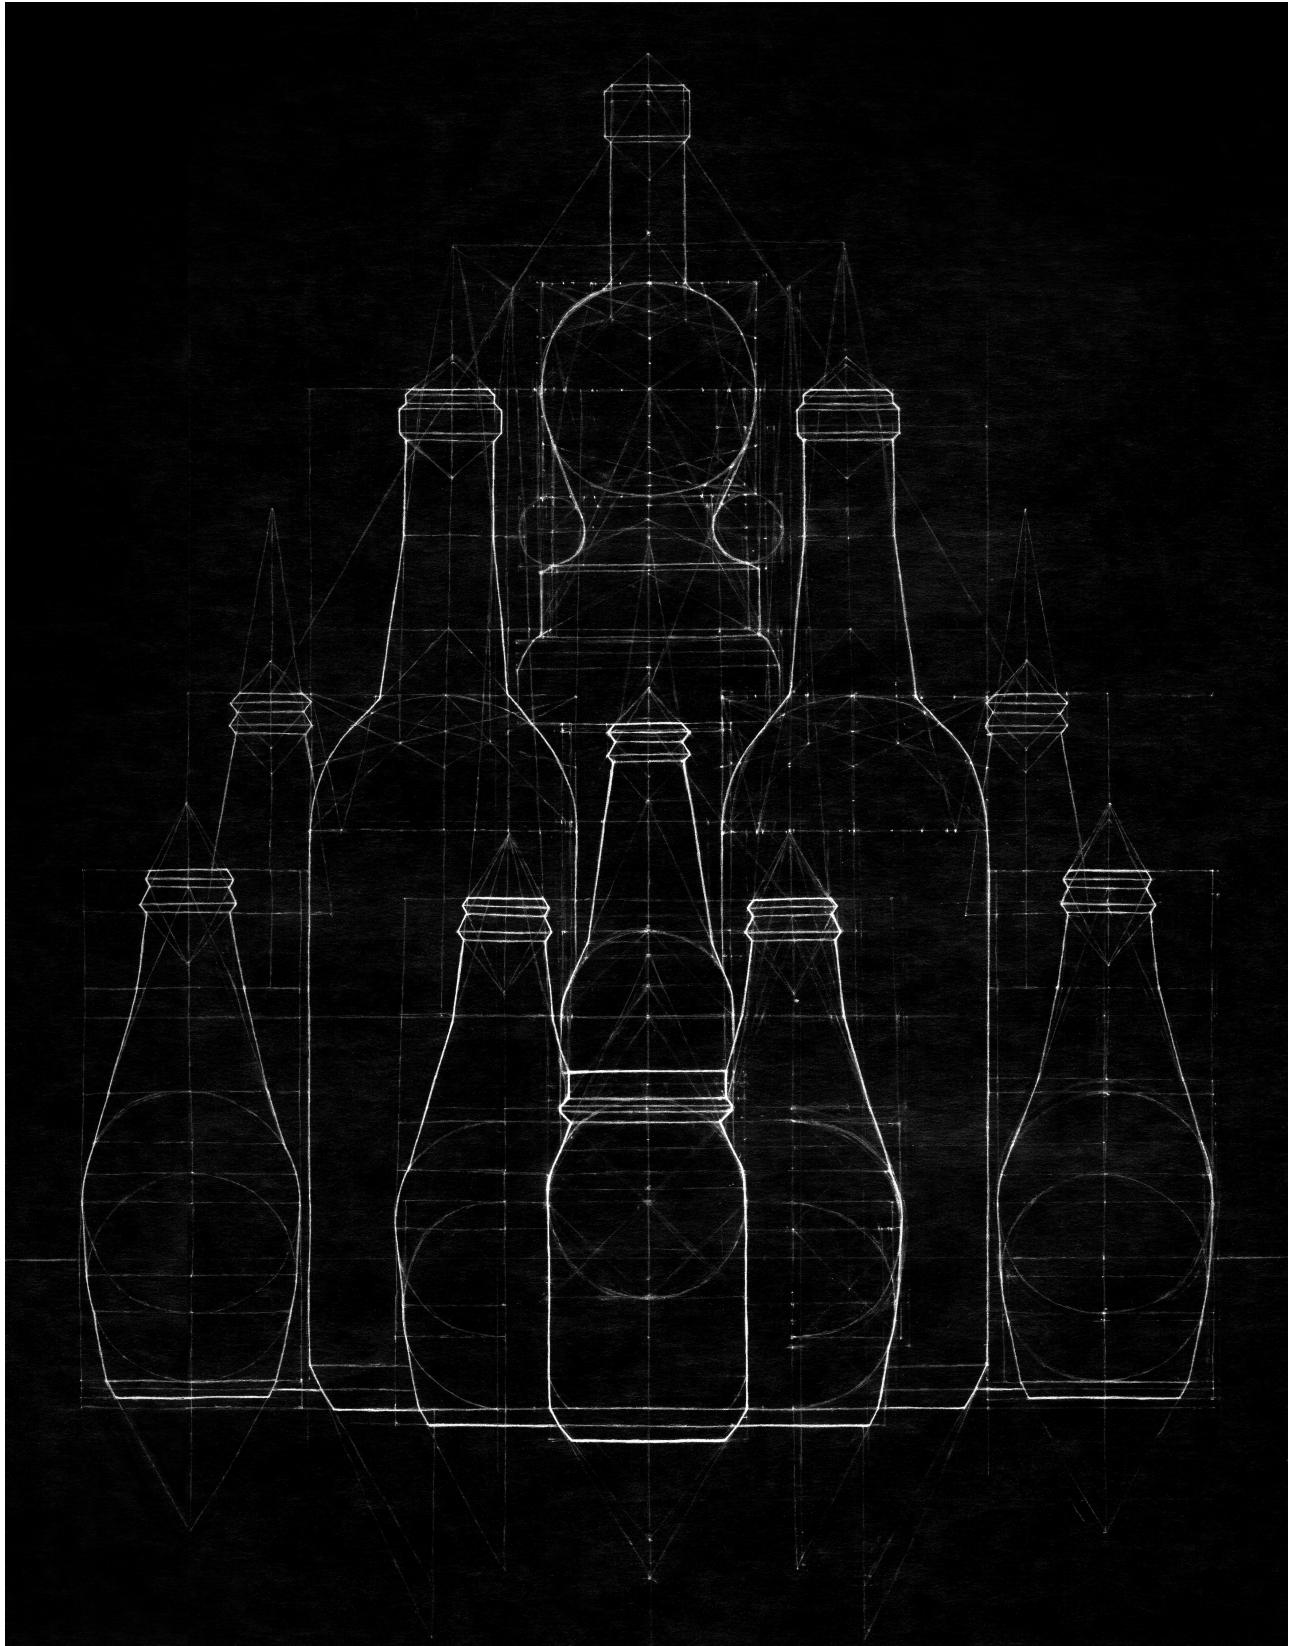

Cathedral of Bottles

Conte and Photoshop (2011)

What is creativity? Is everything just a remix of something else or is there more to it? Here, a lot of empty alcohol containers would make a beautiful roof for a cathedral.

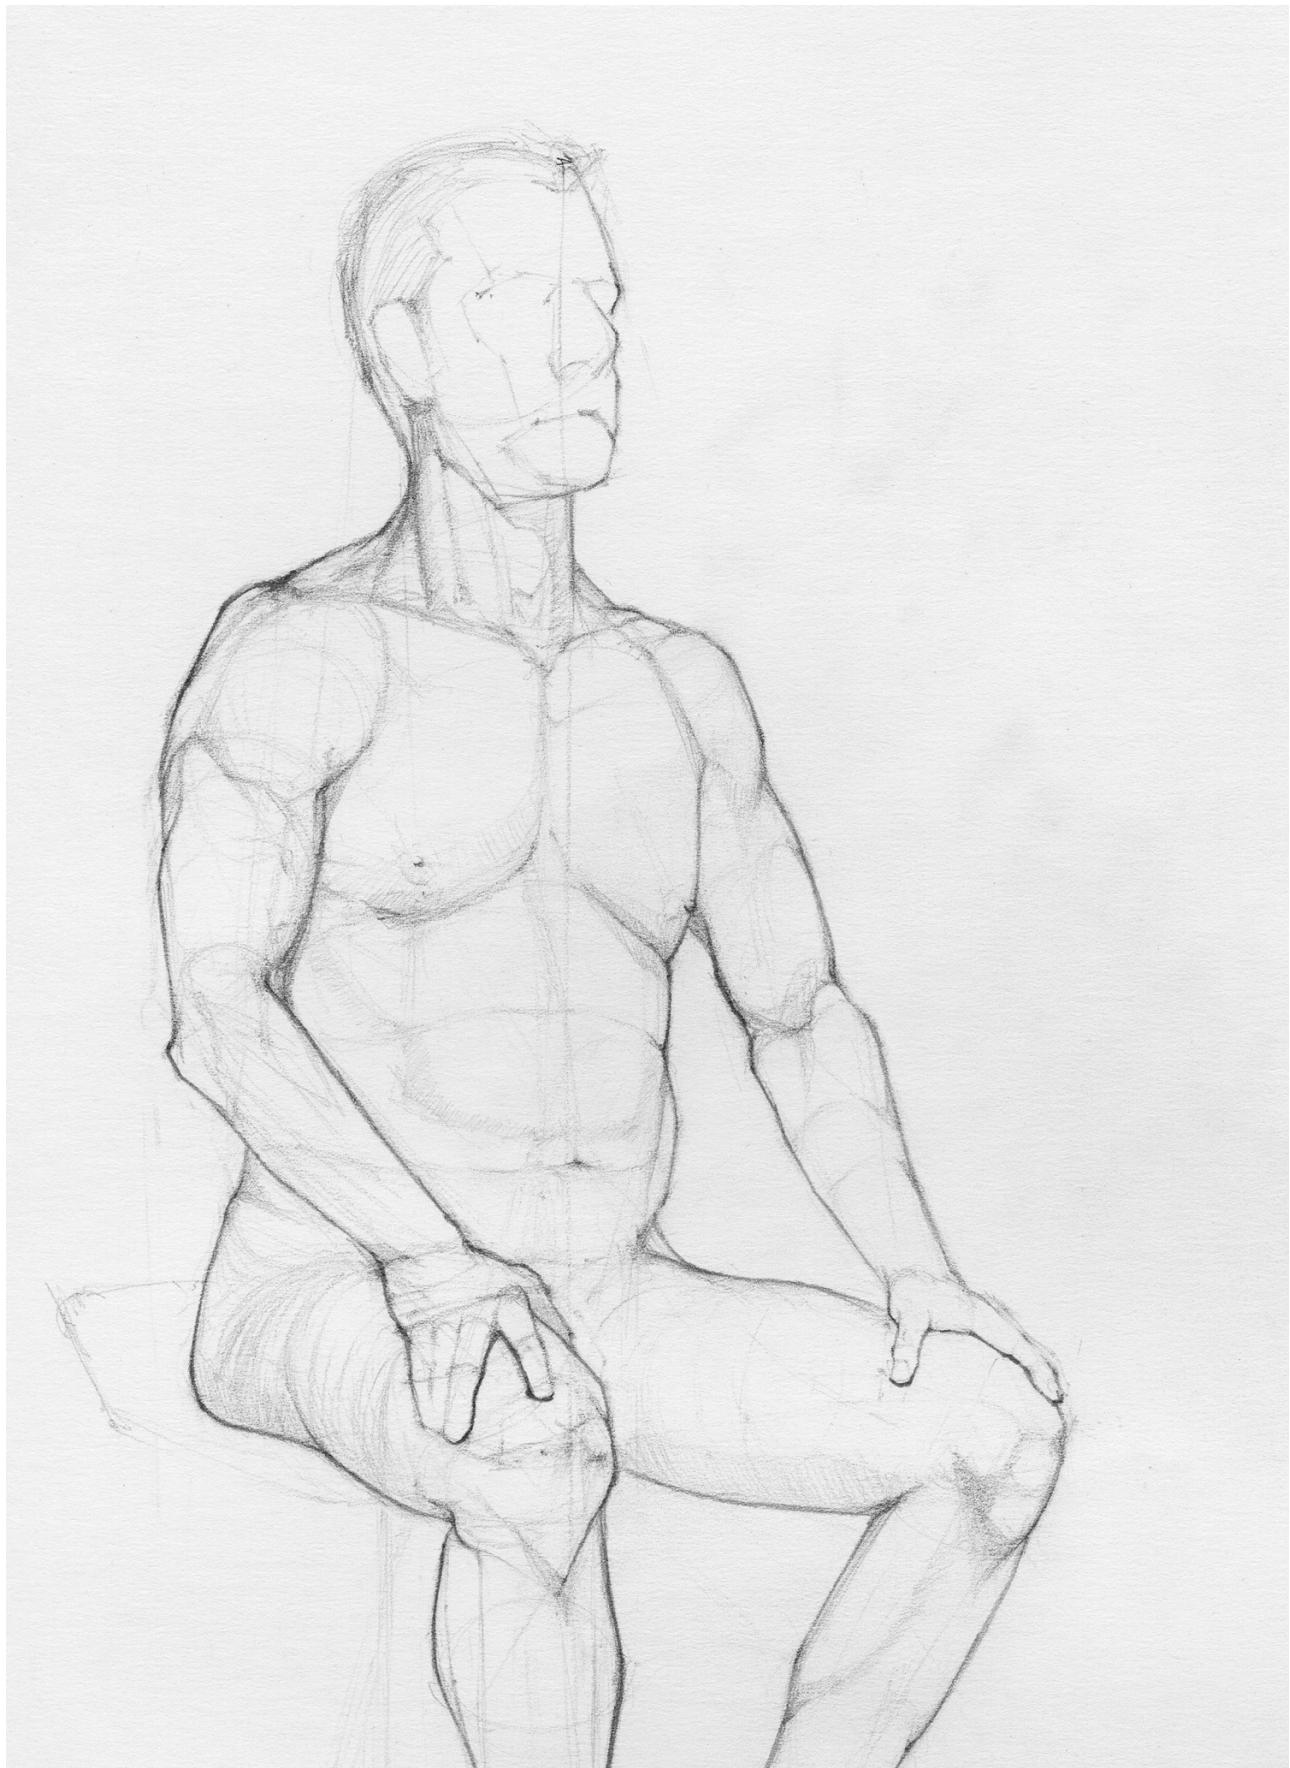

Sitting Figure

Conte (2011)

In 2011 when I sat down for my very first figure drawing class I was so nervous I remember my pencil literally slipped from my sweaty hands. I was in a class of 20 people, but the model immediately recognized that I was new. And then the craziest thing happened, he walked over and we started talking. I can't even remember what he said but his words gave me so much comfort. And then I drew one of the worst figures ever. This one is a lot better :)

Movement

Photoshop (2011)

Mechanical Man

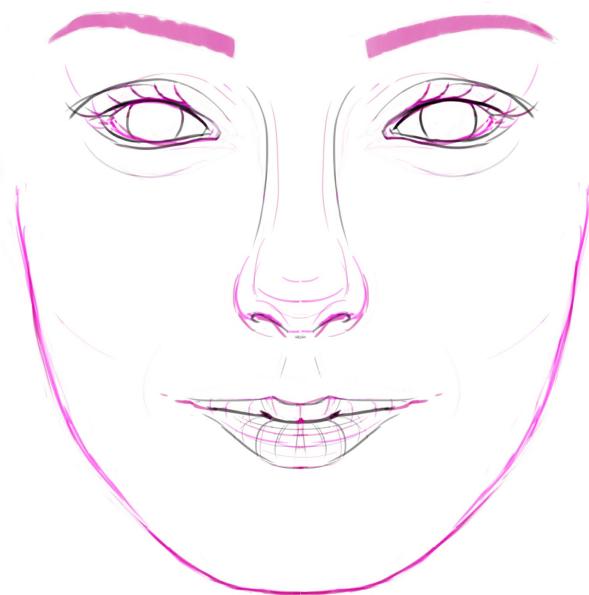

Marker (2011)

Beauty

Photoshop CS5 (2012)

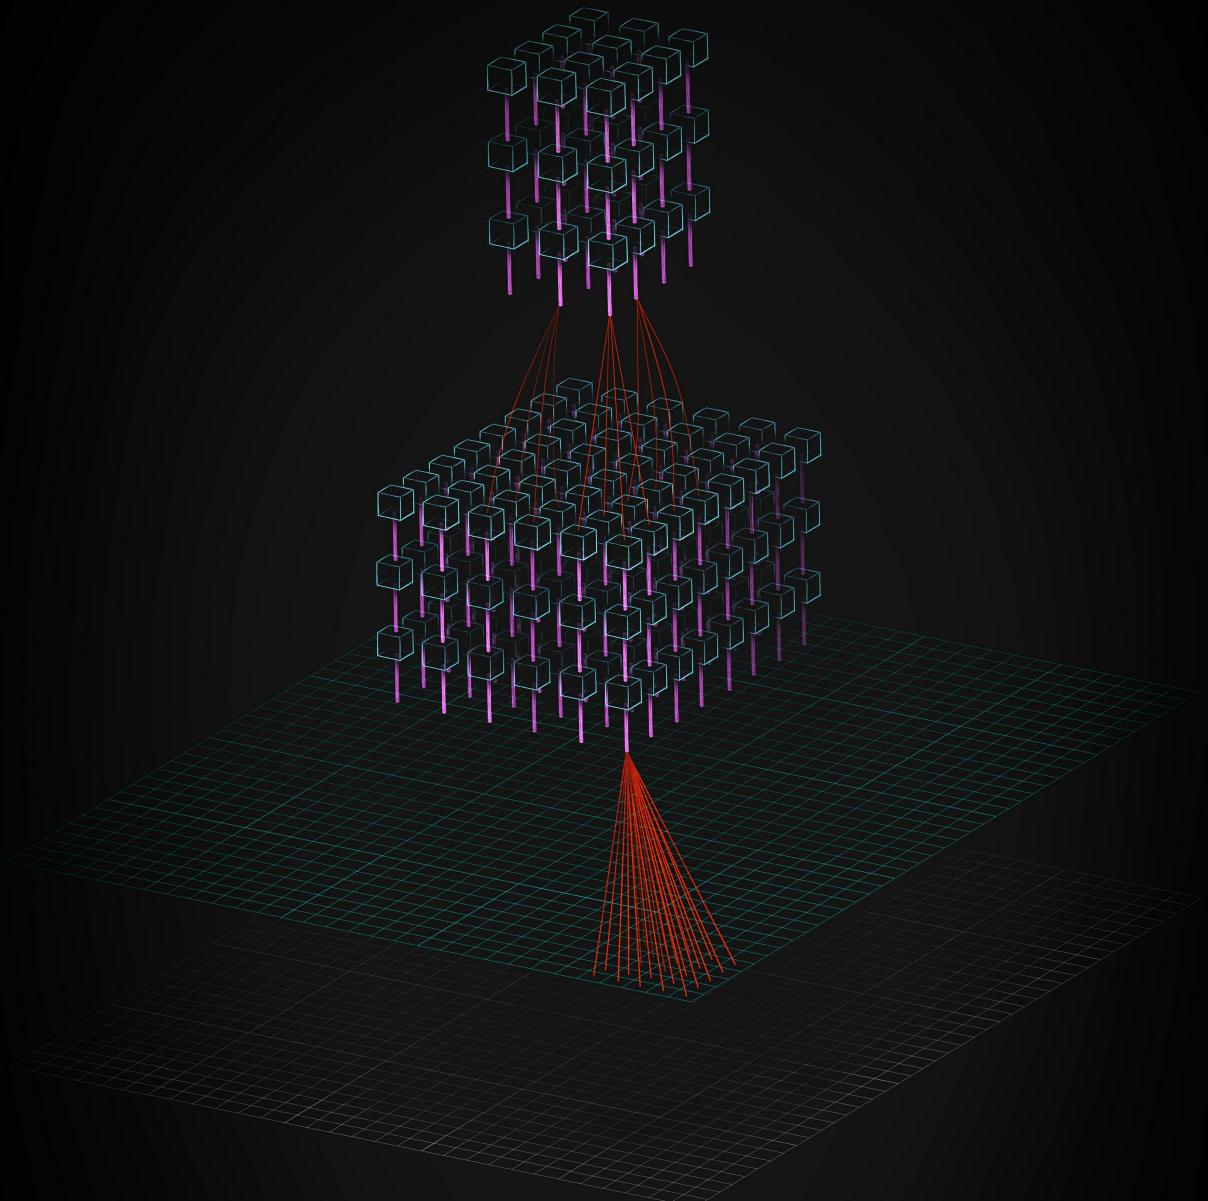

The right amount of skin, fat, and bone may be great, but they make 0% of your brain which is who you really are.

MARK NULLA

Photoshop CS5 (2012)

Representation of the first partial brain model I created. The project is called wAlnut (<https://github.com/WalnutiQ/wAlnut>).

MARK NULLA